Introduction to Local Development

Most of the processes that affect people's lives take place at the local level, although until recently this area had hardly been taken into account when designing, planning and managing public action. Local empowerment allows to 'create' effective solutions to the problems and difficulties faced by a local community, and contributes to promoting local potentialities to achieve an 'optimal' situation. This only happens from a framework of reflection and strategic action that includes a rigorous analysis of its present situation and the strict characterization of the territorial baseline, the determination of a preferred and viable model of territory for the future, and the identification and implementation of the strategies that will make it possible to achieve this model.

OBJECTIUS

Les sortides professionals que té el curs són:

Directors or Managers of organizations (public/private) or companies dedicated to tourist activity.

The main objective of the Master's Degree is to offer specialized and ad hoc training, aimed at promoting entrepreneurship and innovation in the field of tourism, raising awareness of the need to root tourism in a more social economy, focusing on local-based endogenous and sustainable development that works in favour of improving the quality of life of all citizens.

METODOLOGÍA

Students must take an active, autonomous and responsible role in the learning process, which implies paying active attention to the teacher's explanations, as well as prior and subsequent reading of the materials selected specifically for the group of which they are a part. In addition, they must be diligent in carrying out the tasks and exercises that are prescribed, for which they must develop the correct planning of learning times.

The teaching methodology appropriate to the characteristics of the subject, advises that the teacher's explanations will be supported by the relevant complementary material, in which the audio-visual media will play an active role. This will facilitate the understanding of the speeches of both the teacher and the historical sources that will necessarily be used in class.

The teacher will tutor the training experience from the proximity required by the uniqueness of the student group, and students will receive, when necessary, adequate guidance on aspects related to theoretical training and content of the subject.
